Meet Bonnie Zhou

My name is Bonnie ZHOU; I came from China 5 years ago as an international student. Whilst studying, I was employed at the New Zealand Institute of Commerce (NZICOM). NZICOM is an international institute that specializes in Languages and Hospitality. Upon graduating from UNITEC, I joined St. George Institute of Learning as an International Marketing Administrator. St George's provides Language, Business and Computing Courses to international students. My responsibilities included building strong long-term relationship with Agents and Students alike, developing Marketing tools to business develop our courses and provide assistance to the students.

Most recently I have been employed at PBRs as the International Sales Administrator within the International Department. My role is to continue working alongside the Chinese Market and support the Chinese International Students. I am passionate about people and possess the experience and skills required to be successful in the role.

As an Internationally born and educated person myself I have been through each one of the stages which our international students are going to face when moving to study, live and work in a new country. I look forward to sharing my own experiences and guide you towards your future success.

Prince William in New Zealand

Prince William has visited New Zealand on behalf of his grandmother, the Queen for the opening of the Supreme Court building. During his time in the country the Prince has also visited the Eden Park Stadium in preparation for the Rugby World Cup in 2011. He has also seen the Karori Wildlife Sanctuary and had a bbq with the Prime Minister, John Key.

Wellington News

The NZI Sevens Tournament hosted in Wellington in February is one of the eight IRB World Series tournaments held around the globe every year.

The NZI Sevens Tournament hosted in Wellington in February is one of the eight IRB World Series tournaments held around the globe every year. Just about everyone dresses up in costumes and the atmosphere is buzzing. Even though tickets sell out in record time, many still flock to the city without tickets to enjoy all the free events that the city puts on around the tournament.
